Live in Omaha

They snaked around the radio station building and into a parking lot. The luckier VIP fans were escorted to another set of doors. Those devotees won tickets to a question-and-answer session by calling the radio station every time Ingraham said "Let's go to Omaha!" (Excerpts from Omaha World Herald article, July 31, 2010; Author: J. Loza)

NEWS TALK

Standing up for What's Right.

"I love her political ideology,"
"I have talk radio on all day."
"She stands up for America,"

Some were as young as 8. Some were college students stopping in between classes. Some were silver-haired, khaki-wearing grandpas. But mostly they were starry-eyed middle-age men and women who couldn't believe they might meet one of the nation's top-10 radio talk show hosts, who averages more than 6.25 million listeners each week on the radio.
